At the Mackenzie Center, I learned that it takes 384,000 drops of sap to make one gallon of syrup! I really enjoyed tasting the fresh, REAL maple syrup, because it was absolutely DELICIOUS and I saw how much time and effort that was put into it. I am very thankful for the spile that we got to make out of elderberry wood! I think it is really cool and I will definitely try to use it. I had an amazing time at the Mackenzie Center!

I Love this! You did a great job answering all the questions with enthusiasm.

Can we use this to send to Mackenzie?
